Tammy leads the firm's family law practice, having worked almost exclusively in family law in the Peterborough area for more than thirteen years. Tammy brings extensive knowledge, compassion and dedication to her clients and works diligently to find timely solutions through mediation, collaborative law and arbitration. However, when the need arises, she has the skills and experience to vigorously represent her clients' best interests in a court of law.

Tammy is actively involved in several local charitable organizations as well as the Peterborough Law Association.
